

Upper School Counseling

- College counseling services begin with the upper level students.
- Classroom guidance lessons are typically conducted during students' study hall sessions and focus on pertinent topics such as bullying, career exploration, or testing results.
- Students are invited to join small focus groups on an as needed basis. Parent permission is obtained before participation is allowed.
- Individual counseling is available upon referral or on an as needed basis.